

Jodi S. Yamamoto

Of Counsel

Direct: (808) 540-4503

Jodi Shin Yamamoto is Of Counsel to the firm, practicing in the areas of energy, regulatory, telecommunications, real estate, and utilities law. She is particularly well known for helping clients obtain favorable results in complex, multi-party administrative proceedings, such as proceedings before Hawaii's Public Utilities Commission and County-level land use authorities.

Before joining the firm, Jodi served for six years as Vice President and General Counsel of Bishop Museum, which for over 125 years has been a leading cultural, educational, and research institution in the Pacific region. In that role, Jodi ensured that the museum's goals were achieved through her supervision of corporate governance, contracts and agreements, licensing arrangements, and strategic litigation. Jodi also worked for four years as a commercial litigator for a large Hawaii law firm.

Jodi's extensive experience helps the firm's clients navigate particularly complex regulatory matters. Recent results Jodi has helped the firm's clients achieve include obtaining government approvals of the merger between Comcast and Time Warner Cable from two Hawaii regulatory agencies in approximately eight months, and obtaining a Special Management Area permit for the renovation and re-powering of a century-old biomass power plant on the Hamakua coast in administrative proceedings involving sixteen intervenors.

Jodi is active in the Honolulu community and devotes considerable time to public service. She is currently the Board President of the Legal Aid Society of Hawaii, a member of the Board of Trustees of Hanahauoli School, a Co-President of the Brown Club of Hawaii, and a Board Member of the Jarrett Middle School Foundation. Jodi also serves as the Co-Chair of the 'Io Society for 'Iolani School.

Jodi received her Bachelor of Arts degree in Public Policy and Sociology, with honors, from Brown University. She earned her J.D. Cum Laude, from Boston University School of Law, as both a Paul J. Liacos Scholar and an Edward F. Hennessy Scholar.
